

Meeting 1 PM. We're all here.

Aparna says by using fragments instead of activities, it's harder to pass data from an activity to a fragment.

Aparna's map stuff requires Google play services to function.

The map stuff connects to a Google Maps public API key.

We're going to be fixing bugs as well as expanding into new stuff.

Paola wants to change it so habits are identified with a key and not their title. The problem with the title being the key, is that when modifying the habit, you can't modify the title!

Change field names to be consistent throughout the database.

We all need to work on the UML as we go. It's a mess.
